

Volume 28, Issue 60Conference Announcement*Annual Seminar of the Society for Economic Research on Copyright Issues
(SERCI)

Location : Madrid, SPAIN

Organizers : Richard Watt

Major Topics : Economic Theory (applied and empirical) related to any topic concerning copyright and cultural intellectual property

Conference Dates : 6/3/2002 to 6/3/2002

Submission Deadline : 1/31/2002

Send Submissions To : Richard Watt, Dept. Análisis Económico, Fac. C.C.E.E., Universidad Autónoma de Madrid, Ctra. Colmenar, km. 15, Madrid 28049, SPAIN richard.watt@uam.es

Sponsoring Organizations : SERCI

For further information contact :

Web Page : <http://www.serci.org>

The Society for Economic Research on Copyright Issues (SERCI) is a non-profit institution that promotes high quality economic research on any issue related to the economic theory of copyright. The annual seminar of SERCI will be held in Madrid (Spain) on June 3-4 of 2002. The invited SERCI lecture will be delivered by Prof. Stan Liebowitz (Univ. Dallas). A refereed selection of the papers presented at the seminar will be published internationally. Papers on any topic, both theoretical and empirical, related to the economics of copyright and cultural intellectual property will be considered for inclusion on the programme. Of particular interest are papers concerning the optimal pricing of copyright, and the collective management of copyright. To be considered for the programme, please send submissions to Richard Watt, either as an e-mail attachment (to richard.watt@uam.es) or by regular mail (Dept. Análisis Económico, Fac. C.C.E.E., Universidad Autónoma de Madrid, Madrid 28049, SPAIN) before 31 January 2002. Successful authors will be notified before 28 February 2002. Submissions may be in any reasonable format, and an extended abstract detailing the problem studied, method and expected results is sufficient. Completed versions of accepted papers will be required before April 15, 2002.