I am pleased to inform you that the next International Conference on Policy Modeling (EcoMod2003) will take place in Istanbul, in the Hotel Conrad Istanbul, on July 3-5, 2003. The goal of the conference is to promote the exchange of ideas among economists conducting quantitative analysis for policy- and decision-making in the public and private sector. The conference will cover issues related to agriculture, business cycles, developing countries, energy and environment, EU enlargement, financial markets, forecasting and projections methods, game theoretical models, general equilibrium modeling, labor market, macroeconometric modeling, microsimulation models, monetary policy, optimization models, public finance, regional modeling, sectoral issues, WTO, trade and regional integration issues. You are cordially invited to submit your abstracts by email to: <mailto:paper@ecomod.net> The deadline for submissions is January 15, 2003. Details of the conference are available on: <http://www.ecomod.net/conferences/ecomod2003/ecomod2003.htm>
