This year's SEA meetings will be held Friday-Sunday, November 21-23,2003 at the San Antonio Marriott Rivercenter Hotel in San Antonio,Texas. As usual, there will be a series of ESA sessions at the meetings. If you would like to present a paper please email an abstract to dddavis@vcu.edu, by Wed. March 12. If you would be willing to organize or help organize a session, please contact me as soon as possible. Note: March 12 is a binding deadline. If you think you would like to attend the meetings, PLEASE send your abstract to me by then. Offers to organize sessions are particularly appreciated. The broad scope of economists typically attracted to the SEA meetings makes these meetings an ideal venue for themed sessions with interests that extend across fields, since it often quite easy to attract discussants who are not exclusively experimentalists. In recent years, for example, we've had pairs of sessions dealing with econometrics and experiments, and antitrust experiments. >With your abstract please include the following information. >1. paper title >2. job affiliation >3. address >4. phone number >5. e-mail address I have also been asked to convey the following two additional pieces of information. 1) For the purposes of organizational simplicity, try to confine the number of abstracts for papers you plan to present to no more than three. 2) All participants in the sessions are expected to pay the registration fee for this convention (this fee was $75 for SEA members, $100 for nonmembers, and $30 for student members at the most recent convention but has not been determined for 2003.
