8th INFER Annual Conference 2006 Special Topic: Public Economics: Economic Policy, Governance and the Role of Institutions September 22 - 24, 2006 At University College Cork, Cork City, Ireland Conference Objectives The INFER Annual Conference provides an opportunity for all involved in economic research to exchange their ideas. Researchers are invited to submit theoretical and applied papers across all areas of economics. Papers may be submitted under the theme of this years conference: "Public Economics: economic policy, governance and the role of institutions" or any other area that their research applies to. A number of keynote speakers will be invited to talk on this year"s special topic. Researchers are also invited to organise their own session, either under this years theme or a theme of their own choosing, comprising of 2 or more papers. Participants The conference is open to all involved in economic research, including both young and experienced researchers, post-doctoral students, and professionals from business, government and non-governmental institutions. We would especially encourage young researchers and those from the new EU member states to submit a paper. Publication of Papers A selection of papers presented at the conference will be published shortly after the conference. Authors of accepted papers will receive a proposal for publication following the conference. For details of possible publication outlets see <http://www.infer-research.net> and click on publications. Location The Annual Conference will be held at University College Cork, Cork City, Ireland. A port city of trade and commerce, Cork City is a major regional cultural centre with a deeply embedded artistic community. Galleries and arts centres, concert halls and cinemas, pubs and restaurants, all are available and eager to host the stranger and the returning friend. Cork is Ireland"s second largest city and was chosen as European Capital of Culture 2005. University College Cork (UCC) is a dynamic university of over 14,500 students, which includes over 1,000 international students representing 60-plus countries worldwide. UCC is Ireland "s leading research institute with the highest research income in the country. The University"s internal research reputation spans all of its faculties where it offers over 120 degree and professional programmes through seven schools and 27 departments. Further Information: The conference website, <http://www.infer-research.net/ac-2006.htm> will provide d information concerning conference fee and registration details, travel and accommodation details, information on Cork City, as well as downloadable registration forms. The preliminary conference program will be posted there by mid-July, 2006. Any questions should be directed to the conference organiser, Dr. Edward Shinnick, e.shinnick@ucc.ie.
